

KIMBERLY TROWBRIDGE: INTO THE GARDEN

Trowbridge's large solo exhibition of paintings at Bainbridge Island Museum of Art reflects images, ideas, and methods developed from 2018-2020 as Creative Fellow at the Bloedel Reserve, on Bainbridge Island.

Trowbridge was born in Everett, WA. She is a two-time Neddy Award Finalist (2014, 2016), and an Artist Trust GAP Grant recipient (2014). She received her MFA from the University of Washington in 2006. Kimberly is the Director of the Trowbridge Atelier of Painting, at Gage Academy of Art in Seattle.

About Bloedel Reserve

The Bloedel Reserve is an internationally renowned public garden and forest preserve. Gentle trails meander through nearly 150 acres of sculpted landscapes, woods, meadows, and wildlife habitats, creating a one-of-a-kind immersive experience in nature. Book timed tickets online.

Bloedel Reserve Creative Residency

Established in 2015, the Bloedel Reserve Creative Residency program fosters creative thinking inspired by nature and provides opportunity to deeply explore the connection between humans and the environment. The residency program provides artists and innovative thinkers with a three-week stay on the Bloedel grounds, with unlimited access to the Reserve's 150 acres of sculpted gardens, forests, meadows, and wildlife habitats.

About Bainbridge Island Museum of Art

BIMA inspires curiosity, wonder and understanding by connecting people with the contemporary art and craft of the Puget Sound region. Located a stone's throw away from the Bainbridge Island ferry terminal, BIMA is the gateway to Bainbridge Island and beyond. Since opening its LEED Gold certified building in 2013, BIMA has become the cultural living room for the community.

Open daily, 10am-5pm | FREE Admission
